CONDEMNED MEN WILL NOT BE SHOT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 14.—The four American soldiers condemned to death by court martial in France, two for sleeping on post, and two for disobedience of orders, will not be shot. Reports that the evidence in these cases had been sent to President Wilson were erroneous it was was learned today. Instead the reviewing authority here—the judge advocate general's office—after inspection of the records in the case has returned them to General Pershing with a notation showing that the findings were irregular. Certain technicalities which must be observed are understood to have been overlooked by the court. These irregularities are understood to be of such a character that Gen. Pershing will have to set aside the findings of the court and restore the men to duty. It is possible, of course, that some of them can be corrected but officials who are familiar with the situation declared today that the men never will be executed.

Officials today praised highly the action of General Pershing in sending these findings to the war department for review. Under the law of the army he had the power to order the sentences executed but did not do so. That he did not do so undoubtedly has prevented a miscarriage of justice.

The cases of the five colored soldiers awaiting execution for participation in the Houston riots await the result of other trials before the president will act upon them.

Fire in Saugerties.

Shortly after 1 o'clock on Wednesday fire was discovered in the oil house of Montgomery-Washburn Co. on Livingston street, Saugerties. Snyder Hose Co. and Washington Hook and Ladder Co. quickly responded to an alarm and kept the fire from reaching the main factory building. The oil house, containing a number of barrels of oil and several hundred gallons of water proofing compound, was destroyed. The building was a total loss and with the contents entailed a loss of $1,500. There was no insurance on the property burned. The origin of the fire is unknown.

JOBLESS CONFER IN POUGHKEEPSIE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Poughkeepsie, March 14.—The State Federation of Agriculture, the new Agrarian party, held its second general meeting here today. The meeting today, according to the leaders in the movement, is for the purpose of securing the sentiment of the farmers on the eastern part of the state on matters in which the federation is interested.

Samuel Fraser, Seth J. T. Bush, John J. Dillon and Charles W. Burkett are scheduled to address the meeting today, which is being held in the armory. The speakers have all been active in organizing the federation and have been prominent in the movement against Governor Whitman among the farmers.

There was every indication that the federation would again adopt resolutions against the state food commission and the farms and markets council. At the Syracuse meeting some time ago when the new federation was organized resolutions demanding the abolition of both were adopted. According to the leaders the federation will go on record again today in the matter.

Opposition was also forecast against the latest nominees of Governor Whitman to the farms and markets council. According to the leaders and members of the federation are not all agreed that the nominations which have been confirmed meet with their approval. It is possible that resolutions will be adopted on this matter.

It is expected that the meeting will take some action as to the scope of the future activites of the federation. So far it has taken up but few matters and some of the members are urging that committees be named to investigate the possibilities of co-operative buying and co-operative marketing.

The farm labor situation will be discussed.

GERMANS CONTROL THE BLACK SEA

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Amsterdam, March 14.—Occupation of the great Russian port of Odessa by German troops—as announced by the German war office—has put the Russian Black Sea fleet at the mercy of the Central Powers.

Advices received here today did not give the strength of the Teuton force that advanced upon the Russian port, but indicated that it was a part of Von Mackensen's army that had been holding the Rumanian front.

Control of Odessa gives Germany domination of the Black Sea and opens up a direct route from Germany through Ukrainia to Trebizond and thence to Persia.

Germany has already been accused of conspiring to make the Baltic Sea a German lake, but the latest developments indicate that her ambitions are even greater and that she aspires to make the Black Sea a German lake as well

That the Germans planned to occupy Odessa was foretold in an Amsterdam cablegram to the International News Service on March 7. At that time it was pointed out that the preliminary peace agreement between the Central Powers and Rumania made it plain that Germany intended to send troops to Odessa. Odessa lies in Ukrainia and is one of the great commercial ports of Europe. Its chief export is grain. Also Odessa is the chief base of the Russian Black Sea fleet.

HELLISH HUNS MUST BE WHIPPED

Tales of Fiendish Cruelties of German Barbarians Told by Corporal Sweet Today to Men of Kingston Shipbuilding Corporation.

F. A. H. Sweet, formerly corporal in Strathcona Horse, R. C., 1st Canadian contingent, and the Rev. J. H. Sheppard, both members of the national service section of the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, were in Kingston today and this morning addressed an audience made up of workers of the Kingston Shipbuilding Corporation on the Island Dock, where four big government ships are to be built, and two of which are under course of construction at the present time. The two men were in Newburgh Wednesday and are being sent from shipyard to shipyard where government work is being performed bringing a message of the needs of haste in shipbuilding, and that ships will help win the war.

The Rev. Mr. Sheppard is a former pastor of the church at Connelly, and was the first speaker of the morning, and in brief words and patriotic manner he stated that the needs of the government at this time was loyal work on the part of the shipbuilders and more ships and more ships. He spoke strongly against the pacifist who was simply spreading German propaganda. His address was both interesting and patriotic and at the close he was greeted with hearty applause.

Corporal Sweet was then introduced. The corporal is now in the employ of the government. He received three bullet wounds at the front in France and walks with a slight limp and wear glasses. In virile words he told of the need of the hour and that it was up to the men back home to hold up the hands of the men in the trenches. The tales he told of the fiendish cruelties of the barbarian Huns were almost unbelievable, but he had seen many of the incidents he related with his own eyes.

The Hun is viler than the wild beast and his bloody trail through Belgium; his inhuman treatment of little girls, some not out of their teens, were laid bare in thrilling words by the speaker. He told of how on the French front some Canadian troops were captured by the German beasts. They stripped the Canadians of their clothes and made them stand stark naked throughout the night in the muddy trenches up to their waists in water. Then as morning broke they drove them out of the trenches at the point of the bayonet and as the Canadians with the rays of the sun illuminating their naked bodies staggered toward their own trenches to rejoin their brothers in arms, the German beasts opened fire and murdered them in cold blood in view of their horrified companions.

Such deeds which even a beast would not be guilty of was the work of the Huns in an effort to frighten their enemies and drive the Canadians to show a yellow streak. But unfortunately for the Huns, the Canadians failed to develop the yellow streak as their deeds have shown to the entire world.

The unheard of treatment of the women and girls of the allies by the German Huns were such as to make the hearers turn sick at the stomach. So horrible were some of the acts of the Huns that it made one ashamed to think that they could even be called members of the human race which they had degraded.

Corporal Sweet held the close attention of his audience as he related at first hand incidents of trench life, and at the close of his address his hearers better understood what our boys are in the trenches for and what they are fighting for.

As he ceased hearty applause greeted him.

BOLSHEVIK MAY FIGHT GERMANS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 14.—That the Russian Bolshevik forces intend organizing real opposition to the German invasion was reported to the state department today by Ambassador Francis. In a lengthy massage, the first received for some days, the ambassador quoted utterances by Leon Trotzky which indicated that at last the Bolsheviki realize the danger of acceptance of a German-made peace. While it was not stated by Mr Francis to whom Trotzky talked, he made it plain that it was to an American official. Trotzky expressed grave concern over reports that Entente forces might invade Siberia according to the American ambassador, and indicated that he did not believe such action would be necessary. He announced his intention or organizing an army "under iron discipline" with which the Russia government would be able to oppose Germany everywhere and keep the new republic a real force in the war.

It is understood that this conversation with the Bolshevik foreign minister took place on either Sunday or Monday. The despatch from Ambassador Francis made speedy progress in transmission, state department officials announcing that it was less than 24 hours in transit.

Trotzky's position was accepted by officials here as reassuring. It was believed that he and the other Bolsheviki leaders at last realize that war with Germany is unavoidable and that they will now be willing to accept any and all assistance which may be afforded them by the Entente Powers. It also was believed here that if the statements of Trotzky are endorsed by the Soviet Congress which met today in Moscow that the entire Japanese-Russian situation will lend itself to speedy adjustment.

This report from Ambassador Francis went a long way to offsetting the result of the capture of Odessa by Germany. State department chiefs made no attempt today to discount the importance of this latest German conquest. It will release, they said, large quantities of grain which has been stored there since 1914. Tremendous stores are on hand there, it is understood, and these have, of course fallen to the Germans.

FIVE KILLED IN GERMAN AIR RAID

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, March 14.—Five persons were killed and nine injured at Hartlepool last night by bombs dropped from a German air raider, according to an official statement issued today by Lord French, commander-in-chief of the home defences.

Four bombs were dropped upon the city of Hartlepool by the German airship.

(As the official statement used the term airship it is presumed that Zeppelins were again employed by the Germans in their latest attack against the northeastern coast).

Hartlepool stands upon a promontory jutting into the North Sea, 19 miles southeast of the city of Durham. It has a vast system of docks and there are large iron foundries and shipyards located there. It is in Durham county.

FLOOD DAMAGE IN WEST VIRGINIA

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Charleston, W. Va., March 14.—Efforts were being made today to get in touch with points along the Elk Valley, where the water, swollen by heavy rains of the last 48 hours, is at its highest stage in nearly sixty years. Thirty-two feet is reported at Clay Courthouse. The towns of Burnsville and Glenville are also inundated. Wire communication has been severed.

Railroad traffic throughout the south central part of the state was demoralized by the floods and the loss will run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. The Chesapeake and Ohio railroad suffered the greatest damage, train service on several of its divisions being suspended because of slides.

About 200 families now living in the low lying sections of Charleston were driven from their homes during the night when the Kanawha river reached a crest of 37 feet, five feet over the danger mark. The river then began falling and it is believed that in the absence of rain all danger will have passed by night.

The basements of the business houses of the city were flooded by the backwater, but little damage was done.

Wrecking crews started out early today on the Kanawha and Michigan, Chesapeake and Ohio and the Coal and Coke railroads to clear away the debris so that traffic from here can be resumed. Train service on the Chesapeake and Ohio and the Coal and Coke roads was competely at a standstill today.

BRITISH CAPTURE SOME PRISONERS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, March 14.—British raiders penetrated a German position near Epehy during the night, returning with some prisoners, the war office announced at noon.

On the Ypres-Staden railway (West Flanders front), the Germans made an unsuccessful effort to raid a British trench.

In the Cambrai sector there were violent artillery duels while the shelling of the Germans increased at Neuve Chappelle and Fauquissart.

(Epehy lies between Cambrai and St. Quentin.)

GERMAN POSITIONS FOUND DESERTED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

With The American Army in France, March 13—(Delayed)—Indications that the Germans have practically evacuated their advanced positions opposite the Americans on the Toul front—at least so far as defensive tactics are concerned—received corroboration on Monday night, when Americans again raided the German lines penetrating them to a certain depth. The sole occupants of the German trenches were the bodies of men who had been killed by the American shell fire.

Intense activity that developed on the Toul front since the Americans took up their positions there evidently caused the Germans to take precautionary measures.

East of Luneville the only pretense the Germans make to holding their front line is to send patrols through them nightly.

Although the Americans did not secure any prisoners when they penetrated German positions at 8 o'clock on Monday night, they effectually squelched a contemplated German gas attack which had been set for the near future.

Aerial photographs that had been taken by American observers flying with French pilots revealed that the Germans had installed a number of gas projectors opposite a certain part of the American front. Consequently it was decided to stage a raid there. It proved a case of "killing two birds with one stone," as the sharp burst of gunfire which preceded the raid wiped out the projectors which had been emplaced and were ready for use, it was found later.

The preliminary bombardment lasted only a quarter of an hour, but was very intense owing to the large number of guns engaged.

When the artillery ceased playing the doughboys lent over the top traversing the debris of the shell-wrecked projectors. They discovered a number of German dead and exchanged shots with a few enemy patrols that were fleeing towards their rear through a maze of traverses and communication trenches.

The Americans then blew up such of the German dugouts as had not been destroyed by direct shell hits. Incediary bombs were thrown into the trenches, the flames burning away the wooden supports.

Documents were found and brought back, furnishing the Americans with valuable information.

The American stretcher bearers and medical men had an idle time of it, as every American that [illegible] returned.

WANTS OPPORTUNITY TO STRIKE BLOW

At the Germans—Sullivan Twins in France—Henry Writes Letter to His Mother.

Mrs. John Sullivan of 29 Rogers street has received a letter from her son, Henry Sullivan, one of the Sullivan twins, both of whom are in active service in France. Henry states that he hopes the time will come when he and his brother can show just what kind of stock Kingston produces. They are both anxious to strike a hard blow in the interests of democracy. The letter follows:

Dear Mother and All:

Just a line to let you know we are well and in fine shape. Jim and I have not received any letters lately, but we are getting used to the poor mail service; that is one of the things that you have to put up with. We write just the same though; I don't suppose you receive our letters very promptly; but they are coming all the while. Jim writes in the middle of the week and I write on Sunday.

Well, how are things in Kingston. I suppose you felt pleased when they read our names at that patriotic meeting at St. Mary's. There are not many cases where you find twins in the same outfit over here; in fact, there aren't many times you find brothers in the same outfit.

I hope the time and opportunity will come when we can show just what kind of stock Kingston produces.

I wish we had more Crmels. They surely were good and went like flapjacks.

This squadron has been changed from the 461s to the 469th Aero Construction Squadron.

There isn't much more to write now, so will close with love to all.

EX-SOLDIER LEBOIS DECLARED INSANE

Recently Discharged from Army—Kept Two Guards Busy Watching Him at Sanitarium—Will Go to Middletown.

Henry LeBois, a former well-known horseman, who has been serving in the United States army, and who was recently discharged from the service on physical grounds, was examined at the city hall the other day by Drs. Van Wagenen and William J. O'Leary, and pronounced insane. He was later removed to the Benedictine Sanitarium to await the arrival of the authorities from the state asylum at Middletown.

Since then Mr. LeBois has kept his guards on the jump. He believes he is still fighting the Germans and imagines he is at work digging trenches, throwing poison gas and doing other war-like stunts. He also believes he should take his exercises regular and mornings his guards has the job of timing him while he showed them how fast he could tear up the turf. John Salzmann and Messrs. Weinstein and Sintar have had the pleasant job of watching him.

Middletown sent for LeBois Wednesday, but the officials refused to take him until he had been furnished with other clothes. The matter was referred to the alms board which will fit him out with a new outfit and it was expected he would be taken to Middletown today.

LeBois was a well-known horseman and while in the army offered $50 to any man who could outride him. He is a husky built specimen of manhood. It is said his trouble was brought on by injuries received when thrown from a horse but this could not be verified.

SAILORS RECEIVE GIFTS FROM W.C.T.U.

The following letters have been received in acknowledgement of gifts sent by the W. C. T. U. of the county:

Mrs. L. M. Weed,
The Huntington,
Kingston, N. Y.

My Dear Madam:

I have this day received the package which you so kindly sent containing the extra knitted garments which I will turn over to the Submarine Chaser No. 29. I doubt you will hear from the members of the crew in a short time.

Thanking you for your interest and the interest of your society in the men of the service, I remain

Yours very truly,
W. G. ISAACS.
Chaplain, U. S. N.

My Dear Mrs. Weed:

The captain tells me that you have asked for my whereabouts in a recent letter, and I am reminded that I never acknowledged your note written earlier in the winter. The reason is that in the hurry of getting out our boat for service on the other side, we have had very little time for letter writing.

Our boat has at last been chosen for foreign service and we have been in this port a matter of six weeks getting ready. Another month should see us on the way over, and we'll all be glad when we start.

No one knows yet where we may operate, and it may be anywhere from the North Sea to Suez. We can't decide whether to study upon French, Italian or Egyptian and as a result there is little studying done.

When we do get over there I imagine that we shall be rather cut off from English publications and I know that any magazine that you and your society send to the boat will be greatly appreciated.

Thanking you for your offer to do this for us, I am

Sincerely yours,
ALFRED LOOMIS.

Mrs. Weed has just sent to Mr. Loomis a comfort kit and two pairs of knitted socks, and says that more comfort kits will be sent to this boat.

Germantown to be Viewmont.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, March 14.—There is a town down in Columbia county that is genuinely patriotic. So much so that it is going to get rid of its name. For many years it has borne the name of Germantown but ever since this country went into the war its residents have blushed every time they were called upon to give their address. So the legislature is coming to their rescue. The assembly has passed a bill changing the name of the town to Viewmont and the senate is going to rush the measure through so that the good citizens of the town may once more hold up their heads in company. Berlin in Rensselaer county is also seeking to have legislation introduced to change the name as soon as the citizens can agree on a substitute name.

DON'T GAMBLE WITH YOUR CORN CROP

You May Need to Buy Seed—Test Your Corn and Know the Facts—Much Seed Corn Found to be Bad.

Many Ulster county farmers who thought that they had plenty of good seed corn this year have been badly fooled. When they tested their seed they found it unfit to plant.

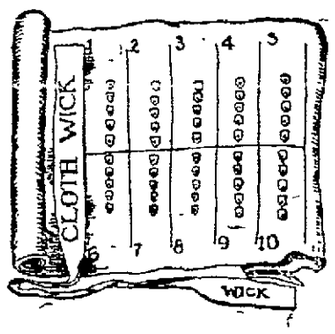
Last year was a very poor corn year in New York state. The early frost damaged very much seed corn. Very little corn was harvested last fall that was sufficiently well matured to make good seed. Even corn that has seemed to be fairly matured and was harvested before the frost struck it contained so much moisture that the early fall freezes spoiled much of it.

Seed Tested at the Farm Bureau Office.

Farmers who desire to have their seed tested but have not the time or facilities for testing it, should send in a good representative sample to the Farm Bureau Office, corner of Crown and John street, Kingston, N. Y. All seed received at this office will be tested and the results reported promptly.

As a result of the tests already made it has been found that about 65% of the corn is unfit for seed purposes

The following method represents a simple but accurate way of testing seed corn. This method is known as "the rag-doll method."



How to Make a Rag-Doll Tester.

Take a strip of muslin about 10 inches wide and 22 inches long for 10 ears, and about 36 inches long for 20 ears. Mark on it as many 2-inch or 3-inch divisions as there are ears of corn to be handled in the tester. Number the divisions 1, 2, 3, 4, etc Make a wick about 1 inch wide and a foot long of any old cotton cloth

How to Use It.

Number the ears to correspond to the divisions, dampen the cloth and place five kernels from ear 1 to space 1, etc.

In securing the kernels do not take them all from one part of the ear. Take one from near the butt end, one from near the tip and the others in the middle.

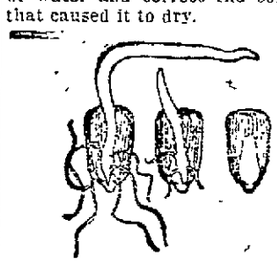
When all the spaces have been filled, carefully roll up the rag-doll, starting from the left-hand end, making sure that the seeds are not mixed by careless rolling. Then, when the last row has been rolled in, place the wick in the rag-doll, letting about 8 inches of it hang out, and finish rolling to the end.

It should then be dipped in water, rolled in a wet towel, and the wicks placed in a glass of water.

Several rag-dolls, testing 50 to 100 ears, may thus be placed in the same towel.

Don't Let it Dry Out or Freeze.

Feel of the towel every day and if it is not moist, souse it in a bucket of water and correct the conditions that caused it to dry.



In about six days the test is ready to count, and all ears showing weak, dead or mouldy kernels should be thrown into the feed-box.

Test Other Seeds Also.

After testing your corn try testing your other seed. It certainly is not profitable to plan poor seed. It costs enough to plant seed once without having to plant it over a second or third time. Grain unsuitable for seed is too valuable for other purposes to put in the ground to rot.

To test such seeds as oats, wheat, buckwheat, clover, etc., lay a moist blotter or a piece of moist cotton flannel on a plate. Count out 100 seeds, just as they come Put them on the blotter or cloth; cover with a piece of paper and then with another moist blotter or piece of cloth. Then cover the plate with another inverted plate Keep in a moderately warm place and examine from time to time. After 3 or 4 days count the the sprouted seeds to determine the per cent germination. 80 to 90 per cent germination is considered good.

Our Neighbors.

Charles Lamb was one day criticizing a neighbor rather severely when his listener interposed with a protest that the judgment was mistaken, and that the critic did not really know the man. "But I don't want to know him," said Lamb. "I might get to like him." That is what might happen in a good many cases when we stand off and condemn. The faults are not the only qualities our neighbor possesses. We might get to like him if we took the trouble to get acquainted.

ETON JACKET TO BE POPULAR

Sleeves on Spring Suits Are Tight and Cuffs, More Often Than Not, Are Exaggeratedly Flaring.

In one Fifth avenue house, where strong stress is laid upon the creation of American-made suits and gowns, there is a decided movement toward the Eton jacket as a standard for spring suits, says the New York Times. The argument is that, if wool must be conserved, then this is the best manner in which to do it. An Eton jacket is a graceful thing and it has had a great feminine appeal through all the ages. In this, its latest adaptation, it has lost none of its former charms and gained new ones.

Three or four points are to be distinctly noted about the new spring things—Eton and otherwise. One is that the sleeves are tight and set into normal armholes. There is a little or no echo of the sleeves that fall into the waistline. Cuffs are, more often than not, exaggeratedly flaring and are cut as parts of the sleeves themselves. Often they are faced with a contrasting color of silk. Collars of white are taboo. Either the collar is made of the same material as the gown or of one shade darker or lighter or of a colored linen. There is a great deal of talk among those conservatives who become wedded forever to a certain style, about a white collar softening the line. There are white collars that are as hardening as can be and there are colored collars and plain finishes quite beautifully softening. It is all in the art of the thing, after all, and in the way that it is handled.

HINTS FOR THE BUSY WOMAN

New headdresses follow Russian lines.

Little hats have big ears composed of straw.

Jersey in silk and wool is featured by Rodier.

Slipover jackets are still exploited by Lanvin.

Dahlias knitted of wool decorate chapeaux of crepe.

Sailors of duvet de laine are faced with punta straw or lisere.

Bangkoks promise to be as good next summer as last for wear at the country club.

Patriotic Patricia will select a spring suit of silk and conserve the wool.

Semi-tailored blouses of satin or georgette are in the best of style.

Pockets no longer form ornamental designs, but are hidden away in seams.

A new domino check is attracting attention at the fabric counter.

Much jet is being used by the high priestesses of hatdom.

Athletic "undies," made of cotton batiste, are patterned after garments worn by men.

Lingerie frocks are composed of fine handkerchief linen in pastel shades.

Hercules braid comes again into the dress light and puts soutache in the shade.

Silk jerseys show motifs in high relief worked in flat and raised stitches.

Knee-length coats of black satin will be worn with white frocks this coming summer.

Festive frocks of net are trimmed with silk filet. Nets in all the pastel shades are fashionable. Palm Beach is in a regular rainbow glow of these delicate tints and colorings.

EVENING WRAP OF MOLESKIN

© Western Newspaper Union

This beautiful evening wrap is of ermine and moleskin, the latter being used in the body of the garment, with the ermine as trimming. The convertible collar is a striking feature of this coat.

A Coat Dress.

When a coat dress has a waistline at all it is either high or low, never quite where the old-fashioned waistline is supposed to be.

The coat which has only a back waistline has it low, and both the upper and lower parts of the coat are lightly eased into the band which indicates it. The sash belt is more often placed a little high on one side, with a droop on the other, where it is knotted or looped.

Where there is a belt all round it is not unusual for the fastening to show one end buttoned about an inch higher than the other end, the buttons then being fixed to the coat.

A Proverb Disputed.

"Misery loves company."

"I don't believe it. I can't see that people are any more contented and companionable during a cold wave than they are at other times."

ALL LOOKED ALIKE TO HIM

Mrs. Newrich's Footman Helper Possibly Didn't Know There Were Any Other Kind of Cards.

Sir Cecil Spring Rice, the retiring British ambassador, is one of the most Democratic diplomatists ever accredited at Washington. In fact, he is very much like his predecessor, Viscount James Bryce, and has no patience with the new rich and other artificially gilded society. Although story telling is a luxury for the overburdened diplomat, a story he told some time ago is timely, in that it is applicable to the war millionaires, of which every warring nation seems to have a big quota.

Sir Cecil's story is about a lady whose husband made a fortune in rubber, and in due time had reached the outer edge of society so as to be permitted to make a few calls, which were better received if made by card. On visiting days, she bedecked herself and her motor, and the round through the streets was always a question of hours.

On one occasion, however, the footman being sick, she broke in the helper, not having time to secure another footman. While on her way Mrs. Newrich discovered that she had left her visiting cards at home, and thither she hastened, sending the new footman to fetch them, after which they continued on their mission.

It was quite dark when they reached the residence of a foreign minister, and the lady ordered the footman to leave three cards at the door.

"Can't do it, madame," he said bowing.

"I've only got two left, an ace and a deuce."

PRINCE OSCAR

PRINCE OSCAR, KAISER'S SON, TO RULE FINNS.

The Finnish government has asked the German Emperor to appoint Prince Oscar, fifth son of the Emperor, King of Finland, according to a cable dispatch. The new Finnish government contemplates changing from a republic to a constitutional monarchy. (Prince Oscar of Hohenzollern is thirty years old. In the early months of the war he was reported as suffering from heart trouble and to have collapsed after leading a victorious charge at Verdun on October 3, 1914. He returned to duty and narrowly escaped capture in Poland in December of that year. There were few reports concerning his activities in 1915, but in 1916 he was slightly wounded in the head and thigh on the Eastern front.)

DEADLY WEAPON OF WARFARE

German Albatross Is Probably the Most Powerful Machine That Has Yet Been Developed.

The tendency in airplanes has been to run to two extremes—for fighting, as small and fast as possible; and for bombing, as large and powerful as possible. In a three-seated, one passenger sits out in front mounted in a machine-gun turret. The pilot comes next, immediately behind the motor, while the second passenger sits behind him mounted in another machine-gun turret. This airplane is capable of carrying many hunded pounds of explosives and, being very fast and heavily armed, generally accomplishes its mission.

The German albatross is capable of a horizontal speed of 300 kilometers (about 187 miles) an hour. It is a single seater and carries three machine guns, which, being controlled by the motor, shoot automatically and simultaneously through the propeller. The sight of these weapons converges at approximately 50 yards in front of the airplane, making the chance of hitting the opponent three times as sure. The motor is equipped with an electric self-starter. It has also electrical devices for keeping the water warm in the radiator while flying at great heights. The wing surface is less than 20 square yards.—Scribner's.

Make Oleo From Whale Fat.

A committee of experts appointed by the Norwegian government to endeavor to find a method of obtaining edible fats and oils from whale blubber and fish reports that its experiments have been successful. Whale fat with a mixture of other fats can also, it is believed, be used for making margarine. Norway has already two whale oil refineries, and the state has begun negotiations for the purchase of one of these.

THE WHYS AND WHEREFORES

There is considerable justice in the public demand that some means of identification accompany the names on casualty lists issued by the War Department. The public is entitled to know who have been killed and who injured, and the publication of lists containing addresses as well as names serves the triple purpose of removing all doubt regarding identity which naturally arises from publication of names only, brings the war home to every community affected, and removes all chance of deadly German propagandists exciting suspicion by insinuating that the Government does not dare make known the extent of casualties.

The hardship of uncertainty resulting from publication of names only, falls heaviest on friends, as families are now, as always, notified first and before the names go out for publication. Some day this week a conference of War Department officials and the House military affairs committee will be held as the result of criticism of the former by the latter for their action in suppressing addresses in the casualty lists, but the suggestion that only numbers of killed and injured be given to the press and that names of those on the casualty lists be transmitted only to the relatives of the men involved is about the silliest piece of folly imaginable and would bring down the righteous wrath of the public on the heads of all concerned.

The sooner professional politicians, whether they are in Congress or out of it, and impractical, sentimental idealists realize that military campaigns cannot be conducted along the lines of a cut-and-dried political convention, or a charity bazaar, or a card game where a majority of the cards are spread face up on the table, the sooner will American generalship be able to assert its genius successfully and accomplish results against the Hun. The reason for the War Department's request that extensive troop movements throughout the United States shall not receive newspaper mention is thoroughly understood even by the most incessant kickers, of whom Ulster county produces not a few. The reason for not advertising troop movements on transports from American ports has become apparent to everyone. The German spy system is not dead in the United States, as almost daily reports of arrests by United States officials clearly prove, and statements by Government officials indicate that German agents in the United States even yet have means of communicating information to Berlin.

If it is necessary to withhold information on this side of the Atlantic which would prove of value to our enemy, how much more necessary is it to prevent military secrets of the battlefront from leaking out. Every effort is made there to prevent information of military plans from reaching the Huns. Why, then, should civilians in America demand to be furnished with the same information as long as there is not only a possibility but a probability of its reaching Berlin through German spies, by a circuitous route? From stray bits of information regarding the units to which German prisoners and dead German soldiers in the trenches belonged, American military experts were able, with the aid of information obtained in other ways, to reconstruct the battle front when only France, Britain and Belgium were withstanding the onslaught of the Hun, and could determine with reasonable certainty even at this distance the German plans. Does anyone suppose Germany has overlooked the same possibilities? One method of determining the consummation of an enemy's plans is by learning of the location of units through casualty lists. That information could be most easily furnished to Germany from America.

Pershing knows more of the necessity of suppressing news of units than anyone else, and he has requested that names of units be omitted. When such publication indicates to Germany more clearly than it does to us the location of American units, the reason for Pershing's request becomes apparent. Germany already knows where the camps are; occasionally her airplanes drop a bomb there. Casualty lists of units tell her how our forces are located at the front. George Creel, chairman of the committee on public information, shows signs of hysteria when he makes a personal appeal to the President to take action which will result in rescinding the War Department's order. On the other hand, the War Department might easily find that publication of names and addresses without mentioning units would solve the problem of furnishing information to friends and the public and not interfere with Pershing's plans. Whatever may be its own attitude in dealing with public questions, public and political requests, the Administration should not tolerate any such interference with Pershing. The Civil War and the Spanish War afforded examples of the evils of civilian interference with commanders of ability whose understanding of the conditions confronting and surrounding them far overshadowed the querulous demands of stay-at-homes, no matter how much such demands were inspired by patriotism.

The State Senate adjourned Wednesday afternoon "out of respect to the slain members of the old 69th New York National Guard now in France," who were characterized in a resolution by Senator Wagner as "martyrs of the worldwide war." The death of the members of the old regiment in spite of any insurance provision which the Government required them to make for their dependents will entail on some of the members of their families additional labor and additional expense. Because of the death of those men the producing capacity of the State of New York is decreased and the labor of every other man is increased to the extent by which the soldiers worked while they were still civilians. The ranks of whatever craft they were members of have been reduced and in order to continue to produce the same amount of results that would have been accomplished if the soldiers had not been slain by the Hun, every member of that craft must work harder. If possible, it is better to live for one's country than to die for it; it is better by far to work than to loaf for it. So the Senate would have shown greater respect not only for the dead but for those who live if it had decided to increase its work instead of quitting. Someone must make up the increased hours of toil made necessary by the death of every American soldier—why not our public officials who are paid under the theory that they shall devote their time to public work which if performed with the same degree of conscientiousness devoted to private matters would decrease the number of office holders and lessen the cost of government which falls most heavily on those who are not martyrs? That view may be unethical politically, but it is the common sense view of nine-tenths of the voters.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"My wife's felines and Fidos practically rule our house." "A case of reigning cats and dogs, as it were."—Boston Transcript.

"Why does a dog chase his tail, pop?" "From a sense of economy, son. He is trying to make both ends meet."—Baltimore American.

"I know I'm right, but——" "But what? If you know you're right stick to it." "I would, only, you see, although I know I'm right I can't get any one else to agree with me."—Detroit Free Press.

"Shall I sing Tosti's 'Good-by'?" inquired the young man who tries so hard to be entertaining. "I don't care whose you use," replied Miss Cayeno. "And don't bother to sing it. Just say it."—Washington Star.

Willis—"What are you doing with all those charts and time-tables?" Gillis—"Those charts are lists of the various meatless, wheatless, and butterless days in the various states. I'm trying to figure out a trip whereby I can get a ham sandwich once a month."—Life.

"Ma," roared Mr. Jagsby, "where in the demnition bow-wows is my hat? I can't keep a thing about this house. It's a shame the way things disappear without any apparent reason. I would just like to know where that hat is." "So would I," replied Mrs. Jagsby, coldly. "You didn't have it on when you came home last night."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

What He Knew.

Inasmuch as a Scotchman, whether canny or uncanny, has a profound respect for royalty, it is probable that this one felt, after he had discovered his mistake, very much as the crusty old negro who long and checklessly guarded the hats at the Hotel Chamberlain, at Old Point, did after his little interview with President Roosevelt. It was the colonel's first visit to the hotel, at least since his presidency. When he went into the dining room he handed his hat to the old colored man, and when he came out he received it back in proper order. And no check. "But how do you know that's my hat?" said the president. "I don't know it's yo' hat, sah," said the custodian: "I jes know it's de hat you gib me when you come in." As the negro was an intense admirer of Roosevelt, he was overcome, when some one told him who owned the hat, with a sense of having got his joke off once too often. —Boston Transcript.

A Pair of Snuffers.

A gentlemen who was passing his holiday in the Scottish Highlands was engaged one night in writing a letter in a humble abode where he had obtained accomodation. The guttering candles annoyed him and he called out:

"Mrs. McPherson, can you get me a pair of snuffers?"

"A pair of snuffers?" repeated Mrs. McPherson, somewhat bewildered. "Weel, I'll dae my best."

In a few minutes there was a commotion outside. Two stalwart figures shuffled in, followed by Mrs. McPherson.

"This is Donald McDougall," she said, "and this is Dougall McDonald I dinna ken what ye want wi' them; but I'm thinkin' the two o' them tak' mair snuff than any ither twa in the parish."—Public Ledger.

Hasty Sarcasm.

A Scot, evidently uncanny, who was seen walking a few steps along the margin of a French golf course with a blond young officer, who then left him somewhat hastily, was met a moment after by an awed friend, who asked him: "Well, how did you like the Prince of Wales?" "Never saw him," snapped the Scot. "But that was the Prince of Wales you were just talking with!" "How was I to know?" said the Scotchman. "He said, 'Can I play golf?' and I just answered, 'I don't know whether you can play golf, but the links are there!'"—Boston Transcript.

PASTOR OPPOSED TO PROHIBITION

True Temperance Does Not Call For Interference With Business And Personal Liberty, Says Pastor Schmidtkonz.

The following statement made to The Freeman by the Rev. A. Schmidtkonz, for more than a quarter of a century pastor of the Spring Street German Lutheran Church, will be read with interest by many outside the congregation that Pastor Schmidtkonz has served so long and so well:

Prohibition should be opposed from the view point of business, because it is to destroy an important and legalized industry without in any way aiding the cause of temperance. There is a good deal of prohibition in name and secret drinking in fact. The illicit manufacture, sale and use of whiskey in states under prohibitory laws subverts the moral natures of the people in more ways than one. The moral conditions prevailing in prohibition states are no better, if not worse.

In regard to the agitation to have local option election in our city, every well balanced citizen should take a decided stand against it. Conditions in our city are at present better than they ever were. Why disturb these conditions? Why not do everything to keep business in its normal state? Those who give the matter any study know that a dry town means the ruin of legalized business without a single cent of compensation for financial losses incurred. Hundreds of workmen would lose their employment and be forced to move to other cities, real estate values would suffer materially, collateral business enterprises would be seriously affected and nothing would be gained. Whether the morality of the city would be increased is doubtful. Those who sign the local option petition hurt the city and they hurt themselves, because their tax will be considerably higher. The cost of living is high enough without adding to the present tax rate.

Prohibition should be opposed from the fundamental view point of principle. It is wrong to so legislate that because one man abuses his right by drinking to excess, all others should be denied of their personal rights. The wrong doings, the intemperance of one individual is absolutely no criterion for the regulation of other individuals. True temperance means moderation in the use of all things. Prohibition interferes with personal right and has a tendency to intolerance and terrorism. The teaching of prohibitionists is the Calvinistic doctrine of a theocratic state, which shall use force to make men good. This is political heresy, and perversion of religious teaching in accordance with the Scriptures.

To any who may feel impelled to reply to the above statement, The Freeman states at this time that such reply must be limited to the same amount of space given to Pastor Schmidtkonz and may be made by any one clergyman selected by the committee in charge of the local option campaign. Self-selected controversialists need not waste time in writing.

COLLECTING DATA ON KINGSTON RECORDS

A. J. F. Van Laer, archivist of the divisionof archives and history of the state department of education will be in Kingston for some time collecting historical data and records which will later be published by the state department of education.

The following letter received by Mayor Canfield, from James Sullivan director of the division of archives and history, explains itself:

Hon. Palmer Canfield, Jr.,
Mayor of Kingston,
Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Sir:—

For some time this office has had in mind the making of an inventory the records of our towns, counties, villages and cities. We as yet have done nothing with the cities except to inspect some of them from the point of view of the safety and arrangements of the records, but we have now decided to begin with our first publication along these lines.

With this idea in view we have chosen Kingston as the city presenting the best possibilities because of its history and I am sending the archivist of this division, Mr. A. J. F. Van Laer.

Hoping that you will afford him every facility with which to pursue this work, I am

Very truly yours,
(Signed) JAMES SULLIVAN.

BARN BURNED ON ADAMS STREET

While Alderman Ralph Mann was passing St. Mary's school in a trolley car about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon he noticed smoke arising from the barn on Adams street in the rear of St. Mary's rectory. He promptly turned in an alarm from Box No. 43, Broadway and McEntee street. The barn which was the property of St. Mary's parish aid leased by Undertaker N. D. J. Murphy was gutted by the flames, and only the efficient work of the fire department prevented a serious blaze along Adams street. As it was the residence of Mrs. Louis Railon adjoining the barn was slightly scorched by the flames. The origin of the fire is unknown.

As the alarm of fire was rung in huge volumns of dense black smoke shot skyward and those residing down town who saw the smoke were fearful at first that it was St. Mary's school that had caught fire.

Mr. Murphy when seen this morning stated that he had lost two hearses, one wagon, one ambulance, one sleigh, and a quantity of hay, straw and feed, as well as blankets and harness in the fire. He estimated his loss at about $3,500 and he carried but $1,200 insurance.

An automobile owned by the Rev. John J. Hickey was also in the barn and greatly damaged. The auto was covered by insurance. It is said that there was $1,000 insurance on the barn but it would not cover the loss.

OTHER CITIES HAVE A HIGH TAX RATE

From the report issued by the Mayors' Bureau it would seem that Kingston is not the only city with a high tax rate.

The 1917 tax rate for some of the cities of the state are as follows:

Auburn	32.
Albany	28.80
Amsterdam	33.30
Binghamton	33.22
Dunkirk	30.30
Fulton	39.50
Gloversville	38.80
Glens Falls	33.85
Hornell	32.14
Hudson	35.90
Lockport	36.95
Middletown	34.20
Mechanicsville	44.40
Newburgh	32.15
Norwich	39.88
Oneida	56.60
Plattsburg	40.95
Port Jervis	53.52
Rensselaer	37.60
Rome	38.57
Utica	35.11
White Plains	35.11
Watertown	33.32
Watervliet	34.

It would also appear from the report that in some of these cities, the property is assessed at a higher rate than Kingston.

In some of these cities the tax rate for 1918 is higher than the 1917 tax rate.

The Rolling Skating Craze.

The number of roller skaters on Fair street afternoons is increasing daily. Every afternoon after school is out for the day from a dozen to twenty boys and girls use the sidewalk for a skating rink, and Wednesday pedestrians had to watch out sharply and move quickly to prevent being knocked down. At one time a line of fifteen skaters in single file and two hand carts in the rear, occupied about the whole sidewalk.

FORT SLOCUM DEFEATS K. H. S.

Tuesday night in the high school gymnasium a basket ball team from from Fort Slocum defeated the K. H. S. varsity by a score of 59 to 29. This was the second game of its kind to be held in Kingston this year. The other game was played with the Syracuse freshmen, who defeated Kingston 33 to 7. As before the gymnasium was thronged with spectators who came to give their moral support to the high school boys and also to see a real basket ball game.

The game started a few minutes after 8 and from the first it was obvious that if Fort Slocum won she would have to fight for her victory. The Kingston boys were at their best. Johnson, Webster and Wilson were the stars, but the playing of Martin and Whittaker was also of a highly commendable character. Johnson although his man make more points than any other man on the team, played his best at the greatest odds. He was outweighed, but not outplayed if you judge his playing by the size of the two men.

Speaking of the game in general it was no wonder that Kingston lost. The Kingston boys were playing against college men not college freshmen, but college graduates and college upper classmen. Their style of playing was to say the least far superior to that of the Kingston boys. They had the Kingston men out-weighed by no small number of pounds, but nevertheless they won their victory by the hardest of work. They were sports and so were the Kingston boys. The Kingston boys lost like sports and fought to a finish. The game ended 59 to 29. The line-up were as follows:

WATER PRESSURE NOW AT 65 POUNDS

Since the break to the low pressure water main has been repaired the water pressure has gradually gotten better and Wednesday it fluctuated around 65 pounds. This is enough pressure to supply any part of the city with water. Superintendent Harrison said this morning that the pressure would be higher yet if it was not for a number of underground leaks that have not come to the surface yet from frozen service pipes.

POLICE TO ENFORCE SIDEWALK ORDINANCE

The board of public works has notified the police department that the ordinance recently adopted by the board forbidding the exposing of fruit and other articles on the sidewalk and regulating the height of awnings and street signs is now in force. The ordinance hits particularly at the fruit dealers who in past summers make it a practice to move the entire store out on the sidewalk, or practically all of the store. The board adopted the ordinance after Alderman Mann had asked that an old ordinance be enforced. This new ordinance is more stringent than the old ordinance, which at the last meeting of the city fathers was eliminated from the statute books of the city. Violation of the ordinance now in force calls for a fine of $50 and a jail sentence.

Another hearing in the certiorari proceedings brought by the New York Central Railroad to review the city's 1915 assessment against the road will be held here next week before the referee, Hon. George B. McClellan.

AMERICAN HEROES OF FIGHTING AT CAMBRAI.

The first picture of American soldiers wounded in France. These two heroes of the fighting at Cambrai were photographed after they were able to leave their cots at a base hospital in France. Charles Geiger of Chicago, on left, lost his foot in the engagement. E. W. Darland of Paxton, Ill., was one of the American force captured by the Germans. In the action his leg was shattered, and for two hours he was held by the enemy. A counter assault by the British put the Germans to flight. They went so quickly that they neglected to take him along, and Darland was taken to the hospital by his rescuers.

WILL CITY LEASE KINGSTON POINT?

Kingston Consolidated Railroad Offers it to City for $1,001—Referred to Park Committee of Board of Public Works—Other Matters.

Superintendent G. B. TeBow of the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company at a meeting of the board of public works Wednesday afternoon offered to lease Kingston Point Park to the city for the sum of $1,001. The board referred the matter to the committee on parks, of which Commissioner David Burgevin is chairman.

Superintendent TeBow submitted a typewritten list of the ten conditions under which the railroad would consider leasing the park to the city. These conditions were as follows:

1—This was the leasing price mentioned.

2—Open at all times for trolley cars, and park to be in operation from May 30 to and including Labor Day from 7 a. m. to 12 p. m., with man in charge of park to help facilitate operation of cars. Use of telephone.

3—Maintain all buildings and fixtures including the big pavilion and toilets on dock, and painting, carpentering, etc. Park to be turned back in as good condition as when turned over and no alterations to buildings and lawns without railroad's consent.

4—Shrubs, trees and foliage to be trimmed annually. Lawns and edges to be kept cut and in proper condition. Paths and walks to be kept free from ruts.

5—All privilege leases to expire when park is turned back to railroad.

6—Park to be policed and no liquor to be sold on premises.

7—Driveways through park not to be made a general driveway for taxicabs and autos.

8—Railroad to furnish current for all lighting and operation of merry-go-round.

9—City not to sub-let park.

10—Cancel city's lease with three months notice.

Will Pay For Itself.

Mr. TeBow stated that the receipts from the privileges would be more than enough to meet the lease price.

It will be seen by the terms of the proposed lease that the railroad would furnish the current to light the park at night and also furnish power to run the merry-go-round.

Burhans Tree Expert.

Edwin Burhans, tree expert, employed by the board to inspect the trees on the city streets, made his report at the meeting. He has already inspected the trees in the Twelfth ward and as a result the trees near or in front of the following places will be cut down: Corner of Linderman and Washington avenues; Nos. 168, 175, 218, 249, 262, 250, 337 and 436 Washington avenue; corner of Pearl street and Washington avenue; two trees on Pearl street between Washington avenue and Green street; No. 158 Pearl street; corner of North Front and Converse streets; No. 101 and 89 North Front street; corner of North Front and Green streets; Nos. 89, 86 and 74 John street; Nos 42 45 and 5 Crown street; No. 97 Green street; corner Wall and Main streets; Nos. 84 and 78 Main street; Main street near Wall street; No. 44 Green street; Maiden Lane near Wall street; No 22 Green street; and two trees in front of No. 28 Warren street.

He estimated there are between 30 and 35 cords of wood in this lot of trees. The board of public works will give the property owners ten days to remove the trees where it is considered dangerous and 30 days where the danger is not so great. The board will also urge owners to plant trees where the dangerous ones are cut down.

Universal Offers Crusher.

The Universal Road Machinery Company offered to sell a crushing plant to the city for $2,657. The company will take the two old plants and will place the new outfit in operation if their offer is accepted.

Buys Dustoline.

The board closed a contract with the Dustoline Company for 60,000, more or less, gallons of Dustoline to be used on the streets this summer. The price was 14½ cents a gallon.

To Consider Auto Parking.

The board adjourned to April 5 at which time the proposed changes in the city ordinance relating to parking autos will be taken up.

SAUGERTIES.

Saugerties, March 14.—The meeting for the K. of C. campaign in the high school auditorium on Wednesday evening was attended by a large gathering of interested people. William Ziegler, president of the village board, was chairman of the meeting. Addresses were made made by Hon. W. D. Cuningham and the Rev. J. V. Wemple.

The junior's reception to the seniors of the Saugerties high school, will be held in the high school auditorium on Friday evening, March 22.

Stamp Perforation.

The perforation of stamps was first commenced in England in 1853, for receipt and draft stamps, and for postage stamps in 1854. Prior to that period stamps were separated by means of scissors or a knife or similar means and in some cases those who required many resorted to the use of a roulette, a kind of cogwheel furnished with small cutters, making a series of cuts between the stamps.

HIGHLAND.

Highland, March 14.—Mr. and Mrs. LeGrand Haviland and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Martin are at present receiving congratulations upon the arrival at their homes recently of boarders—those who at present do not demand heavy eatables but who later on, if they live, will fall in line for their shahre of all the good things.

Do not forget the Grange meeting on the 19th. The master would like to see a good attendance.

The Camp Fire Girls and Boy Scouts of this place conducted a successful house to house canvass for the high school entertainments, which commence on this Friday evening, the 15th, and will continue for a week, all different, and on Saturday, 16, the Camp Fire Girls will conduct a sale. These various affairs all go toward raising their fund. It is expected everyone will assist.

The free library is once again opened and the people can now obtain all the reading matter they desire. There are a number of new books ready for all.

Monday evening the Epworth League Red Cross held its first meeting since its organization. They had a good attendance and the work will be managed all right for their committee in charge are capable people, Mrs. H. E. Wilcox, Mrs. McLaughlin and H. E. Wilcox

Mrs. Daniel Kurtz was a shopper in Poughkeepsie on Tuesday.

There were several of the fashionable women from this place in Poughkeepsie last week attending the fashion show at Luckey, Platt & Co.'s store. It was fine, giving the new ideas in street, church, reception, evening and dinner gowns. Still the New York model shows eclipse all, for the New York stores carry goods that in other places would not find sale for, but when one wishes to delve in the beautiful, the trip to the metropolis pays, and also is a great educator in regard to gowns, shoes, wraps, headgear and so forth.

On Tuesday evening a goodly number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Upright tendered them a surprise party and it was one that every one present just entered in with might and main for an evening of pleasure and they certainly had it. Games were indulged in, especially card games, which seems to be the predominating pastime at many evening companies. There was also a fine display of good things to eat and we were told it was not war eat either. It was late when the surprisers left for home, declaring it had been a very pleasant affair and some even expressed their opinions in hoping that surprise parties might continue their existence for a short time yet, as they were so enjoyable.

Miss Effie Mead of Central Valley has been visiting friends in this place the past week.

William Perkins of the North road, was a business visitor in Poughkeepsie Monday.

Frank Kniffin and J. Rhoades were in Poughkepsie on business the first part of the week.

Harry Schumacher of Brooklyn was a week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hopper at their home on Vineyard avenue.

It is reported the people at the lower corner are going to have an ice cream parlor opened in the Dobbs building when summer appears. If it is properly conducted and kept in good condition so that it would be attractive and a pleasant rendezvous, it will certainly be a fine thing for the village and summer boarders.

Last Sunday evening at the M. E. Church in this place, Rev. E. Benn, who is a layman of the conference and was pastor of a church at Athens and now resides here, occupied the pulpit and delivered a fine sermon. He told facts and gave some fine ideas in regard to children attending Sunday school and service and told of home training which if there was more of it, would be of great interest and benefit to everyone. We agree with him on those things. We hope to hear him again. There was a good congregation present and every one was pleased with the sermon.

Mrs. J. Lucas and children of Maple avenue were in Poughkeepsie on Monday doing some shopping.

There was a business meeting held in the library Tuesday evening. We were informed the project of the fair, which has been talked of long, was one of the important discussions.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Freer entertained a few friends for dinner Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Miller on Maple avenue, and a very pleasant time was spent by those present.

Last Thursday evening week, Mr. and Mrs. M. Frear, the newly weds, were given a skimmington by the men of the garages and some of their lady friends. Mr. Freer is employed by Lloyd Plass. They presented them with some useful gifts and they all had a very noisy and jolly time and loaded the wedded people with a big supply of rice. It was in the early morning hours when they left, amid the tooting of auto horns and cow bells. Everyone aroused was well aware there had been a record left by these friends, that they never missed their prey, when the prey was a bride and groom. Congratulations were in order.

On Wednesday evening the W. C. T. U. people of this place held a sort of a St. Patrick's social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Moule. There was a large attendance and a short program and refreshments served. Every one present declared they had a fine time. The Moules always make it very pleasant at their home for whatever society they may entertain, they are always very hospitable and every one certainly appreciates the fact.

The Red Cross held their regular meeting on Monday afternoon.

We were pleased to meet Edgar Elmendorf a few days ago. He came up from Beacon. He is looking good and seems to enjoy living in Beacon. He is with his sister, Mrs. Knapp. We will see more of him as the weather becomes settled as he has property here and old friends, and these things will call him back occasionally.

Miss Edna Palmer, of Lloyd, had as her guest for the week end, Miss Gertrude Dimsey of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Palen are going to live in the cottage of Mrs. E. Van Wagner.

Howard E Wilcox was a business visitor in Syracuse last week and he also made a trip to New York city to purchase for the demands of the people here. Say everything is just taking the upward bound, prices are on the high order in regard to everything, yet all know people must have something to wear once in a while.

A very pleasant party was held at the Atkins home on Main street, last Thursday. It was a sort of family reunion and it was to celebrate the birthday of Mrs. Mary Atkins; her children gave this as a surprise to her. Everything fine in the eat line and the birthday cake came from Poughkeepsie which served to make it appear more than ever that it was in honor of a mother's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Hasbrouck of Vineyard avenue, very pleasantly entertained a few of their friends at dinner last Wednesday week and all spent a pleasant evening at the home with plenty of good things to eat.

Mrs. Abram Brinckerhoff of Maple avenue, is getting along famously after her weeks of confinement with a broken bone. She can walk some now by the use of crutches, she still has to be very careful. She is delighted to be able to get around as well as she does, yet we know she will come out all right. She has plenty of perseverance and that helps out a whole lot.

Mrs. Jennie Dickerson spent a short time recently in Poughkeepsie with her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Whitfield Dickerson.

Mrs. J. C. Dedrick of Maple avenue had as her guest last week her sister, Mrs. Henry Hovet of New York city.

Mrs. Eli Dimsey of Lloyd, was in this place last Saturday calling on relatives and friends.

Mrs. Charles Terwilliger and son of Lloyd, was in this place last Thursday doing some shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schamerhorn are at present visiting Mr. and Mrs W. E. Wilcox and other relatives in our village. We hear Mr. Schamerhorn has been transferred from Cleveland, Ohio, to a New York office. If true, this is good news for that brings them nearer the home of Mrs. Schamerhorn and their many friends are glad to hear of the removal from the west and hope they can be near this place for the future for it is not desirable to be so far from one's people.

Last Thursday week Mr. and Mrs. Churchill of Lloyd entertained several friends at a dinner party and a most delightful time was spent.

Glad to state that Mrs. Nicholas Zimmerman who has been very ill for a few weeks is improving nicely at this time which is good news to her many friends.

Mr. Silliman left for New York on Tuesday for a short stay on business.

Mrs. J. C. Dedrick was out of town Tuesday on business.

T. Edward DuBois was out of town this week on business.

Captain R. H. Decker was in Dutchess county Tuesday on a business trip.

Remember the date for the next regular meeting of the Daughters of America Wednesday evening, March 20, at 8 o'clock. Let every member be present for there will be important business brought before the members.

We were glad to see Corporal Harold Upright of Camp Dix, in town for a week end. He is looking fine. He spent the time most delightfully with his mother and around town seeing his friends.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Stowe have returned home after a visit with relatives in Middletown.

Edward Knickbocker was taken to Poughkeepsie on Sunday last to the Sanitarium and operated on for appendicitis. Report comes he is getting on as well as can be expected.

Mrs. Kelsey Staples, Mrs. Charles Terwilliger and Mrs. J. Mellus were shoppers in Poughkeepsie on Tuesday.

Mrs. George Eckert has returned to her home here after visiting a short time with friends in Kingston.

We must conserve and upbuild our resources and protect and strengthen our credit system. War Savings Stamps will help more than any other one thing to do this.

Three Reasons why every woman says: Wonderful for blouses!

"So easy—no rubbing!"

ONCE upon a time, in the dark and Lux-less days, there were Two Kinds of Blouses. First, your Everyday Blouses. You hated those. They were homely and heavy, and plain so they could stand hard washing. No dainty colorings. No lacy trimmings. No flimsy materials. Then, your Dainty Blouses. Those you treasured, and you wore them very, very seldom and very, very carefully. When they were soiled, you sent them away to the Cleaner's, waited for them, and paid for them All Over Again!

Now, how different it is!

Every woman wears the daintiest, prettiest, flimsiest things for everyday wear. Why not, when she can wash them again and again and keep them new with never a bit of rubbing!

Rubbing ruins dainty things

Rubbing cake soap on materials, then rubbing again to get the dirt out, is the old-fashioned laborious way of washing. It was hard on you and hard on your blouses.

Try the Lux way. No rubbing! Just dipping the flimsiest blouse up and down in the wonderful rich Lux suds, then having it new and shimmering again.

Lux comes in delicate white flakes in which there is more real cleansing value than is possible in any other form of soap. You drop them into hot water and whisk them immediately into the foamiest, bubbly lather. Add cold water to make the suds lukewarm, then in goes the blouse!

Let your Daintiest Blouses be your Everyday Blouses. It's so easy with Lux.

"Quick? Unbelievably so!"

THAT is the beauty of Lux. It is so very quick and easy. In an almost unbelievably short time you can transform anything which is limp and dingy into a refreshing, dainty garment.

Who thinks of waiting, nowadays, from Monday to Wednesday for her blouse to be laundered? Never!

For blouses, Lux is wonderful. You simply pop your blouse in the warm Lux suds and have it out again after a few minutes' soaking and sloshing about in the thick bubbly lather.

Try washing your woolly sweater and your soft new blankets in Lux. You would never believe that they could be done so quickly, so perfectly and so easily.

Try Lux for all these things

Fine linens	Children's fine things
Fine laces	Babies' woolens
Lace curtains	Sweaters
Silk hangings	Blankets
Georgette, Crepe de Chine and washable Satin blouses	Silk stockings
	Silk Underwear
Chiffon blouses	Collars and cuffs
Lingerie waists and dresses	Corduroy skirts
	Chinchilla coats
	Washable gloves

Lux will not harm anything that pure water alone will not injure

"Has it really been laundered? It looks like new."

SAID a Rich Girl to a Poor Girl, "I have spent a small fortune for blouses, and none of them look half as dainty as that pretty new blouse that you are wearing."

Said the Poor Girl, "This blouse is not new. I have had it for a year."

"But, my dear, it has never been laundered!"

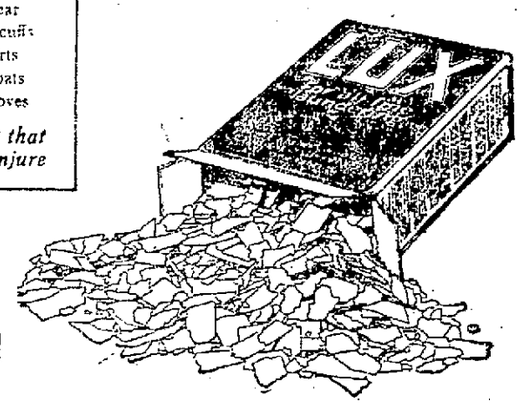
"Oh, but it has—time and again—with my own hands. The secret is Lux. Lux simply charms the soil and dinginess away. It makes my blouse look like new every time it is laundered."

And this is the story of every woman who has ever used Lux. The Lux way of washing gives you results that you would never have dreamed possible in the old days of Vigorous Rubbing. You can have the daintiest things and have them long.

Try Lux just once

Every woman who has tried Lux is soon telling other women that she has at last found the ideal soap product for all fine laundering. Every woman tries Lux for dozens of things she never before would dream of trusting to soap and water.

Try Lux yourself. Your grocer, druggist or department store has it. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.



LUX Won't shrink woolens! Won't turn silks yellow! Won't injure even chiffons!

MILLER CAN SHOOT GUN AS WELL AS BALL.

John "Dots" Miller, former captain of the St. Louis Cardinals, but now one of Uncle Sam's marines, has won his first military decoration, the silver crossed guns of an expert rifleman. Miller is stationed at Paris Island, S. C., station, and broke the monthly shooting record there, registering a score of 289 points out of a possible 300, shooting at 200, 400, 500 and 1,000 yards.

LEVI LOMBARD AND MACHINE GUN
WONDERFUL NEW GUN SHOOTS 23,000 SHOTS PER MINUTE

A machine gun that fires eighteen shots a minute is the invention of Levi W. Lombard of Boston, Mass. The new weapon is of a centrifugal type and can be operated by motor, gasoline, steam or by hand. It has no barrel, operating on a disk which revolves with tremendous speed. The ammunition is fed through a funnel-like attachment, round ball bullets being used, which run through a tube leading into veins beneath the disk. The inventor claims that in a recent test the gun turned out streams of steel slugs three-quarters of an inch thick and hundreds of feet away, forced the bullets clean through the plates.

The personal property is appraised at $229,810.10, making the gross value of the estate $237,810.10. Father of Punctuation.

The present system of punctuation, now used in all modern languages with but insignificant variations, was introduced in the first half of the fifteenth century by a Venetian printer named Aldus Manutius. He is the real father of punctuation marks—of the full stop, comma, semicolon, colon, question and exclamation marks, apostrophe and inverted commas. Manutius' system was adopted later by all printers until it finally established itself throughout Europe.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

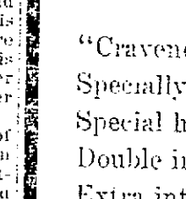
THE KITCHEN CABINET

To save meat we must use more poultry, rabbits and especially fish and sea foods, perishable meats like kidneys, liver and sweetbreads, in place of beef, mutton and pork.

SEASONABLE DISHES.



With eggs as high in price as they are it seems expedient to plan our meals without much reference to them. They are so nourishing that when possible, especially when one has children they should be used in various ways occasionally to add variety to the diet and furnish the growth determinant which is found in egg yolk and so necessary for bodily well-being.

Southern Rice Bread.—Put two cupfuls of boiled rice in a bowl, add two cupfuls of milk, and the yolks of four well beaten eggs. Sift in gradually, one cupful of flour, add a half teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of melted shortening, and the whites of the eggs beaten to a stiff froth. Turn into a shallow well greased pan and bake 45 minutes in a moderate oven. A half cupful of rice may be added to almost any muffin, gem, or griddle cake batter.

Almond Milk Soup.—Take a half a pound of rice, wash well and put into a double boiler with a quart of milk, add one-half teaspoonful of salt and let it cook slowly until every grain is tender and swelled to double its original size. While the rice is cooking, shell and blanch a half pound of almonds, chop them very fine, or grind in a meat chopper, then pound in a mortar, add a few drops of milk at a time (using three or four tablespoonfuls, it will make the nuts less oily). When the paste is smooth, add it to three pints of milk and simmer for thirty minutes. When the rice is done turn it out carefully into the soup tureen, then pour over it the almonds and milk.

Cauliflower Soup.—Select one good head of cauliflower. Wash and pick it apart, drop into a kettle of boiling water, add a teaspoonful of salt after a few minutes and cook thirty minutes. Drain and add to the water one pint of milk, a teaspoonful of scraped onion and a bay leaf. Mix together two tablespoonfuls each of flour and butter and when well cooked, add to the milk, cook five minutes, add the cauliflower and serve.

"Irish" Potatoes Unknown In Ireland.

"We speak in this country of the Irish potato," remarked H. O. Conner, a native of Ireland, at the Raleigh. "Nobody in Ireland would know what is meant by an 'Irish' potato. There are five distinct varieties of potato in Ireland—the Champion, which is the potato we call in America the Irish potato; the White Rock, the Leather Coat and the Sherry, which is a cross between the so-called Irish potato and the yam."—Washington Star.

ONE CENT A WORD ADVS. BRING RESULTS

NO ACTION TAKEN ON SUBWAY PLAN

Mayor Canfield Believes B. P. W. Without Authority—Connelly's Resolution for Cars to Use Subway Returned to City Fathers.

At the last meeting of the aldermen, Alderman Connelly introduced a resolution that the board of public works take the matter up with the Kingston Consolidated Company to the end that all trolley cars use the Colonial subway. The resolution was referred to the board of public works. The board met Wednesday afternoon at which time the resolution was considered.

Mayor Canfield stated that in his opinion the board was without authority for two reasons. The first was that the subway is not on public property and the second that such matters are within the jurisdiction of the public service only.

A. H. Cook and William O'Reilly were two property owners who were present at the meeting and opposed the plan of using the subway for both lines of trolley cars. They based their main objection upon the fact that while the danger to the trolley cars might be eliminated it did not eliminate the danger of the Broadway crossing for pedestrians and vehicles who would have to use the crossing as usual.

Superintendent G. B. TeBow of the trolley road was also present and objected. He called attention to the fact that using the subway might block both systems. A difference in the running time of three minutes on either line would tie up the entire trolley system.

Double Tracking Subway.

The question of placing a double track through the Colonial subway was also brought up. Mr. TeBow said it would necessitate practically rebuilding the tunnel which cost between $28,000 and $29,000 as it stands.

Resolution Returned.

After some further discussion the Connelly resolution was returned to the city fathers with the statement that the board was without jurisdiction.

A Public Hearing.

Mayor Canfield presided at the session with Commissioners Burgevin and Frigham present. The absentees were Commissioners Tammany and Staples.

The board when it adjourned did so until April 5 at which time it will hold a public hearing relative to amending the city ordinance regulating parking of cars on the city streets.

SEED TESTING IS EASY

And It is Worth the Small Effort Required.

There is nothing formidable about seed testing; it is perfectly simple and the little effort and time required will pay good dividends, even to the small user of seed, according to the state college of agriculture at Cornell University.

Four simple tests are described and illustrated in a bulletin recently issued by the college. It is known as extension bulletin 26 and the college will send it to any persons interested. All that is necessary to get it is a postal card request.

The plate germinator, as it is called, is made from two pie tins or dinner plates and some pieces of absorbent paper or cloth. The absorbent material is well moistened, the seeds placed thereon and the second plate placed over it. Another type is the glass tumbler germinator, especially adapted to small seeds, in which the seeds are placed on wet blotting paper and a tumbler inverted over them. The sawdust box germinator is one in which moist sawdust is placed in a box, a cloth placed over this on which are the seeds, then another layer of cloth and sawdust on top. The "rag doll" type is merely a six-inch double strip of cotton flannel, perhaps thirty inches long, on which the seeds are spread. The cloth is then rolled up and placed in a bucket of lukewarm water for twelve hours; at the end of this time the water is poured off and the bucket inverted over the roll.

The purpose of all these tests is, of course, the same: to determine which lots of seed will germinate or sprout and which do not. Seeds of clover and most grasses germinate at temperatures lower than those for cereals.

"Bedlam."

Bedlam is another example of the English fashion of telescoping words, and comes from Bethlehem. The priory of St. Mary of Bethlehem in London was converted into a hospital for the insane in 1402 and in the course of time the name was shortened to Bellam, a word that came to be a synonym for madhouse. To open the door and let the inmates escape would be "Bedlam let loose," and frequently the phrase is used to describe intolerable clatter and racket.

During the evening Mrs. James Tinnie, Jr., sang a solo, which was very much appreciated. Refreshments, consisting of ice cream and cake, were served. The following ladies were present: Mrs. M. J. Major, Mrs. Robert Walker, Mrs. John Lynn, Mrs. Alexander Crook, Mrs. Mead Davis, Miss Emma Cure, Mrs. Martha Neal, Mrs. Emma Burger, Mrs. James Tinnie and Mrs. A. H. Schryver.

A drive to collect a war fund of from two to three million dollars will be conducted by the Catholics of the Archdiocese of New York from March 17th to the 25th. Each parish has been assigned its quota to raise, that fixed for the parish of Port Ewen and Esopus being $1,000. The slogan of the campaign is none other than the patriotic cry, "to help the government win the war." The principal beneficiaries of the fund will be the Knights of Columbus camps and overseas activities. The activities have the special approbation of President Wilson and his secretary of war, Mr. Baker. Thus far the Knights have erected eighty buildings in the camps and cantonments here, besides twenty huts in France, in order to provide recreation and other comforts calculated to protect the health and morals of our boys. Many other centers are in the course of construction. Over each of these buildings is displayed the inviting sign, "Everybody Welcome," meaning that all, irrespective of creed, are entitled to every accommodation and privilege. Nothing is good enough for our lads in khaki and navy blue. They have left behind the joys of home, and many of them will cheerfully make the supreme sacrifice of life in the cause of the Stars and Stripes. Surely we must be prepared to stint ourselves, in order to sweeten their hardships and lighten their burden. From all sections of the archdiocese reports are continually received that various parishes have already oversubscribed, some even doubled their quota. Non-Catholics in every quarter are likewise giving the movement their warmest support, and contributing most liberally. We are confident that all Port Ewenites without exception, will reflect credit on their village by giving generously to the cause. Every noble and patriotic work has ever met with the heartiest response in this community. The present call in the interest of our beloved government and of our soldiers both here and "over there," will be answered by a co-operation that spells success. To conduct the work of canvassing, a committee has been formed, composed of the following members: Michael Gibbons, chairman; team captains, Richard Donnelly, Michael Tucker, John Ward, Mrs. James Hines, Mrs. Mary Giff, Mrs. Thomas Tucker. We are certain you will welcome these ladies and gentlemen with an encouraging word and not dismiss them without a substantial offering, "to help the government win the war."

The Rev. and Mrs. George Crarston, pastor of Clinton Avenue M. E. Church, Kingston, and the Rev. and Mrs. George Mead, pastor of Connelly M. E. Church, of Connelly, were callers at the Methodist parsonage Wednesday on our pastor and his wife, the Rev. and Mrs. Eugene A. Bookhout.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT. POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT. POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT. POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT.

State Dry Testimony does not apply in Local Option Discussions-Kingston is now concerned only with Local Option—our Legislature is taking care of the State Dry issue; as you read in yesterday's Albany dispatches.

Four cities and hamlets, state dry give "HAND-PICKED" testimony by Prohibitionists. Some "Dust," that, eh? Who kicked it up?

Not a word on Taxation.

One mentions some drunkenness from alcohol, until the state took a hand.

All admit injury to some lines of business.

Not one says the jail, alms-house and asylum are closed.

Some Testimony. Like traditional patent medicine testimony that is garnered from Sandpoint, Idaho, and cures everything.

If you want Live Testimony consult the confirmed inebriates they expected to save in Walden, Cornwall and other adjacent Local Option carried towns—Does Local Option "save" them anywhere?

Are Prohibition Political strategists working to prevent a popular vote where they think they would lose—and trying to force the issue to a popular vote where they think they would win safe advisers?

When asked to sign the Forced-Issue Petition Please Inquire why it is so necessary at this time—Ask for Statistics on the alarming increase of narcotic drugs where malt and spirituous liquors are prohibited.

Twenty years of controlled liquor traffic has done more for temperance than Prohibition.

Public intoxication is rare compared with ten years ago.

Sane use of beverages has largely supplanted its abuse.

The merchant who "went out a moment" to take a social glass has almost entirely disappeared.

Traveling salesmen once commonly now rarely indulge in business hours.

Collectors of apes never think of treating at their customers' bars. Dealers do not expect it as they once did. The business under intelligent control, legalized, is conducted on a business basis.

Custom, not Local Option Prohibition has done this.

Local Option Forces Surreptitious Drinking.
Surreptitous Drinkers are those you cannot "save."

Local Option is the the only question now considered in Kingston—

Will it Pay in your Business?

Will it Reduce your Taxes?

Will it Raise your Wages?

Will the Splendthrift save more money.

Don't forget you are asked to hamstring business in competition with wet cities—If you insist on Prohibition demand State Dry—Don't sign off Kingston's Commercial Position.

HOLLAND SHIPS WILL BE SEIZED

United States and Great Britain Will Take Over Dutch Merchantmen in Their Ports for Use During the War.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 14.—Unless Holland voluntarily releases a certain amount of shipping to the United States and Great Britain by next Monday those countries will be compelled to take over the Holland shipping in English and American ports, it was authoritatively stated this afternoon.

This step is inevitable if neutral countries are to be fed, it was stated.

August Philips, the Dutch minister, was in conference with the president this afternoon at the White House.

If Holland shipping is taken over by the United States and Great Britain it will be done under the universally accepted sovereign rights of nations under international law. Holland's situation has been difficult as that country's shipping has been under threat of being sunk by Germany.

The London proposals looking to securing of some of Holland's ships have been lying dormant for two months because Holland has been afraid to take any action.

It is not the intention of the United States or Great Britain to take any advantage of Holland in this matter, but those countries have no other alternative than to commandeer Holland's ships. Ample financial compensation will be given Holland for her ships and they will be returned to that country in as good shape as when received or will be replaced.

Average Accidents.

Women are always the first to be called upon wherever and whenever an accident occurs. The average man is indeed, only too glad to do what he can, but he doesn't know what to do. Nine times out of ten the only help he can render is to rush to a telephone and call a doctor or ambulance to the scene, and he certainly deserves the highest praise for such commendable work, but the average woman has it in her to help materially at such a time.

WAR PROFITEER PUBLIC NUISANCE

No Extortion to Be Tolerated, but Liberal Disposition Toward Business Needed.

Shrinkage of Values Would Curtail Capacity to Provide Sinews of War.

"Conscription of Men, Conscription of Money," Analyzed.

By OTTO H. KAHN.

Much is being said about the plausible sounding contention that because a certain portion of the young manhood of the nation has been conscripted, therefore money must also be conscripted. Why, that is the very thing the government has been doing. It has conscripted a portion—a relatively small portion—of the men of the nation. It has conscripted a portion—a large portion—of the incomes of the nation. Capital and business pay more than four-fifths of our total war taxation directly and a large share of the remaining fifth indirectly.

If the government went too far in conscripting men the country would be crippled. If it went too far in conscripting incomes and earnings the country would likewise be crippled.

Results of Conscription of Capital.

I would ask those who would go further and conscript not only incomes, but capital, to answer the riddle, not only in what equitable and practicable manner they would do it, but what the nation would gain by it?

It is true that a few years ago a capital levy was made in Germany, but the percentage of that levy was so small as to actually amount to no more than an additional income tax and that at a time when the regular income tax in Germany was very moderate as measured by the present standards of income taxation.

Only a trifling fraction of a man's property is held in cash. If they conscript a certain percentage of his possessions in stocks and bonds, what would the government do with them?

Keep them? That would not answer its purpose, because the government wants cash, not securities.

Sell them? Who is to buy them when every one's funds would be depleted?

If they conscript a certain percentage of a man's real estate or mine or farm or factory, how is that to be expressed and converted into cash?

Are conscripted assets to be used as a basis for the issue of Federal Reserve bank notes? That would mean gross inflation, with all its attendant evils, dangers and deceptions.

Would they repudiate a percentage of the national debt? Repudiation is no less dishonorable in a people than in an individual, and the penalty for failure to respect the sanctity of obligations is no different.

The Thrifty Would Be Penalized.

The fact is that the government would gain nothing in the process of capital conscription and the country would be thrown into chaos for the time being. The man who has saved would be penalized, he who has wasted would be favored. Thrift and constructive effort, resulting in the needful and fructifying accumulation of capital, would be arrested and lastingly discouraged.

I can understand the crude notion of the man who would divide all possessions equally. There would be mighty little coming to any one by such distribution, and it is, of course, an utterly impossible thing to do, but it is an understandable notion. But by the confiscation of capital for government use neither the government nor any individual would be benefited.

A vigorously progressive income tax is both economically and socially sound. A capital tax is wholly unsound and economically destructive.

It may nevertheless become necessary in the case of some of the belligerent countries to resort to this expedient, but I can conceive of no situation likely to arise which would make it necessary or advisable in this country.

More than ever would such a tax be harmful in times of war and post-bellum reconstruction, when beyond almost all other things it is essential to stimulate production and promote thrift, and when everything which tends to have the opposite effect should be rigorously rejected as detrimental to the nation's strength and well-being.

There is an astonishing lot of hazy thinking on the subject of the uses of capital in the hands of its owners.

The rich man can spend only a relatively small sum of money unproductively or selfishly. The money that it is in his power actually to waste is exceedingly limited. The bulk of what he has must be spent and used for productive purposes, just as would be the case if it were spent by the government, with this difference, however, that, generally speaking, the individual is more painstaking and discriminating in the use of his funds and at the same time bolder, more imaginative, enterprising and constructive than the government with its necessarily bureaucratic and routine regime possibly could be. Money in the hands of the individual is continuously and feverishly on the search for opportunities—i. e., for creative and productive use. In the hands of the government it is apt to lose a good deal of its fructifying energy and ceaseless striving and to sink instead into placid and somnolent repose.

There need not be and there should not be any conflict between profits and patriotism. I am utterly opposed to those who would utilize their country's war as a means to enrich themselves. The "war profiteer," as the term is generally understood, is a public nuisance and an ignominy. Extortionate profits must not be tolerated, but, on the other hand, there should be a reasonably liberal disposition toward business and a willingness to see it make substantial earnings.

For, taxation presupposes earnings. Our credit structure is based upon values, and values are largely determined by earnings. Shrinkage of values necessarily affects our capacity to provide the government with the sinews of war.

The Conscription of Men.

Reverting now to the subject of the conscription of men, I know I speak the sentiment of all those beyond the years of young manhood when I say that there is not one of us worthy of the name of a man who would not willingly go to fight if the country needed or wanted us to fight. But the country does not want or call its entire manhood to fight. It does not even call anywhere near its entire young manhood. It has called or intends to call in the immediate future perhaps 25 per cent. of its men between twenty and thirty years of age, which means probably about 4 per cent. of its total male population of all ages. But it has called from incomes, business profits and other imposts falling principally on the well to do, approximately ninety per cent. of our war taxation, not to mention the contributions to the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A. and other war relief activities.

Let me add in passing that the children of the well to do have been taken for the war in proportionately greater numbers than the children of the poor, because those young men who are needed at home to support dependents or to maintain essential war industries are exempted from the draft.

Our Laws Favor Sons of the Poor.

The draft exemption regulations discriminate not, as in former wars, in favor of the rich man's son, but in favor of the poor woman's son.

I realize but too well that the burden of the abnormally high cost of living, caused largely by the war, weighs heavily indeed upon wage earners and still more upon men and women with moderate salaries. I yield to no one in my desire to see everything done that is practicable to have that burden lightened. But excessive taxation on capital will not accomplish that; on the contrary, it will tend to intensify the trouble.

Taxation must be sound and wise and scientific and cannot be laid in a haphazard way or on impulse or according to considerations of politics, otherwise the whole country will suffer. History has shown over and over again that the laws of economics cannot be defied with impunity and that the resulting penalty falls upon all sections and classes.

The question of the individual is not the one that counts. The question is not what sacrifices capital should and would be willing to bear if called upon, but what taxes it is to the public advantage to impose.

I do not say all this to plead for a reduction of the taxation on wealth or in order to urge that no additional taxes be imposed on wealth if need be. There is no limit to the burden which in time of stress and strain those must be willing to bear who can afford it except only that limit which is imposed by the consideration that taxation must not reach a point where the business activity of the country becomes crippled and its economic equilibrium is thrown out of gear, because that would harm every element of the commonwealth and diminish the war-making capacity of the nation.

SAME OLD CUPID

By ALICE KILLIAN.

(Copyright, 1918, Western Newspaper Union.)

"There's no other satisfactory way out of it," gasped the old Scotchman, Roderick MacTavish on his deathbed, "and I rely on you to see to it that my wishes are respected."

"You mean that having left half your fortune to Robert Brinsley and half to Edith Allen, the whole to go to James Stirling unless the two parties of the first part keep the property undivided by marriage, your wish is that they shall comply with the terms of your will, and inherit the estate."

"That is my desire," said the Scotchman, "but put in a codicil that if you succeed in inducing the couple to accept the provision and inherit as man and wife you are to receive twenty-five thousand dollars from the estate."

I lost no time in inserting this bequest and in getting the will signed and witnessed. MacTavish died within twenty-four hours after it was executed.

It would require a hundred pages of typewritten matter to explain why the old Scotchman wished his property to go to these two persons. Therefore I shall not attempt it in this very brief story. I had twenty-five thousand dollars at stake and as soon as the will was offered for probate I made a preliminary visit to each of the parties to see what chance there was in the matter.

"How much is the legacy?" asked Brinsley.

"Two hundred thousand dollars."

"My half would be a hundred thousand. Do you suppose I'm going to get myself tangled up with a woman for that. I have three times that amount already."

Miss Allen had no fortune and she very much desired the legacy of the half of it. "Why can't we be married," she asked me, "part immediately, and when we receive the estate divide it and get a divorce."

"You can," was my reply.

I went back to Brinsley and submitted this proposition. He would have nothing to do with it. I showed him that by refusing he was keeping a woman out of one hundred thousand dollars. Bob was a fine fellow and he said at once: "You go tell her that if she will agree to the divorce the moment I say the word, I'll marry her and she may keep the whole of the two hundred thousand dollars."

That he might not have time to change his mind I broke the speed law in getting to Miss Allen and informed her of the generous offer. She was amazed.

"Are you sure that proposition came from a man?" she gasped.

I assured her of the fact and received her consent to draw up a gentleman's and lady's agreement that after a marriage between the two neither would claim any matrimonial privilege, and neither would object to a divorce when desired by the other. What pleased me almost as well as the money I would get out of the transaction was that the stubborn MacTavish would after all fail in trying to have his way after he was dead.

I asked the bride and groom a few days before the wedding if they would like to meet before being married, but neither thought that anything would be gained by seeing one another. I believed Brinsley but not Miss Allen. In the first place she was curious, as women naturally are, and in the second she was unable to conceal from me the fact that Bob's generosity had had a serious effect upon her. She said that if the groom-to-be had a desire to see her she had no objection to meeting him. Otherwise she would be content with his society for the ten minutes that would be required to go through the ceremony.

The wedding was to take place at five o'clock in the afternoon, Brinsley having an appointment at his club for a seven o'clock dinner. I got all the papers drawn and ready for signature and at four called at Bob's office with them. I was to act as attorney for both and to read the documents to them just before the ceremony. Bob and I jumped into a taxi and rode to Miss Allen's. There I introduced the contracting parties, they sat down by a table and read the papers aloud.

The reading took up half an hour, at the end of which time a parson who was waiting was called in and the ceremony performed. While my eyes were fixed on the documents of course I could not see the bride and groom. During the ceremony I noticed that Bob had lost something of his sang froid; the bride was inscrutable.

At the conclusion of the service Bob and I were about to leave, when the bride said she would like a few words with Mr. Brinsley. She desired his own personal word that he would keep the letter and the spirit of the agreement that had been made. She knew nothing about law, but she could understand a promise. Seeing that she wished to speak to him alone, I went away without him.

During the evening, knowing that he had an engagement at the club, I dropped in there. It was about nine o'clock when I arrived and I was astonished to hear that he had not been there. The man he was to meet had dined alone. Moreover Brinsley had not offered an excuse for not keeping his appointment.

I heard nothing from Brinsley for two months, when he informed me that he had not parted, as agreed with his wife, before her marriage, and had just returned from a wedding tour.

Japanese Teas the Best.

One feature which marks tea curing in Japan is the proverbial cleanliness which is characteristic of the Japanese people. The rules of sanitation are strictly observed by the tea growers of Japan. Not only the health and sanitation of workers are strictly examined by local tea associations, but also the process of curing is inspected with great care. Japanese teas have never been artificially colored as have been teas from some other countries.

Be Fair With Children.

Do not keep a list of your children's faults constantly before you, and do not, if you would be happy and at the same time make these little ones happy, elaborate upon their failings before company. On the other hand, if you must speak of the day's events, emphasize their good deeds, tell of the splendid work done during school hours, and admit in the right spirit that these small members of the household save you many weary steps.

LAST LETTER OF PRIVATE ADKINS

Cheerful Letter to Brother Urging That His Mother Should Not Worry Received on Day News Came of Heroic Death of Writer.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 14.—Private George A Adkins, a member of the "Fighting Sixty-ninth" regiment of New York, is dead. Official notice of his having been killed in action was received by his mother in a telegram from Washington today. But just previous to the telegram recounting that Adkins died a glorious death by going "over the top" with others of the 69th, a letter was received at the Adkins home addressed to "Dear Brother Bill" from Private Adkins.

Private Adkins's letter is a fair sample of the sort American soldiers write before they face death on the battlefields of Europe. And in every line was an admonition to his brother Bill to "keep Moms from worrying." The letter in part follows:

"Bill, tell Moms not to bother about sending any money here. It's pretty hard to spend it here. As soon as I get paid I will try and send my photo home—also a cablegram. So tell Moms not to be alarmed

"Try and cheer Moms up, Bill, and when I get back I'll have something for you worth while. So have patience. Just smile, Bill, and be good to Moms, as you know that she's been to you and me and sis.

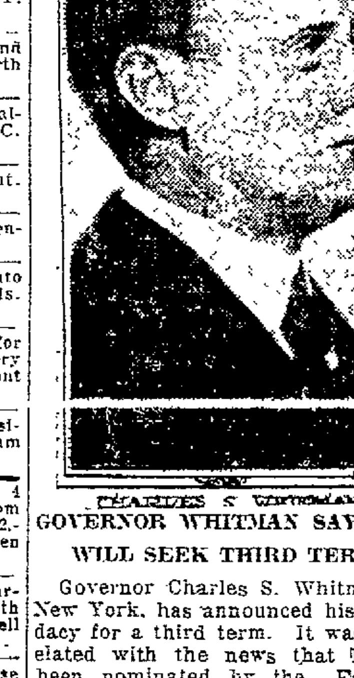
"It was up to me to do my bit, and when it is all over we will all be happy again.

"Bill, I am anxious to hear if Moms is getting the allotment money all right. (He had signed over to his mother two-thirds of his pay.) Be good to Moms, as you always have been, and try not to let her worry until I return home. And let me know how the girl is—some girl.

"Tell Moms to send her photo, Bill. And don't forget to write as often as possible, but it takes pretty long for mail to reach here.

"Tell Moms not to worry—all will be all right."

Private Adkins's "Moms" had hardly finished reading his letter before the telegram came from Washington announcing his death.



CHARLES S. WHITMAN.

GOVERNOR WHITMAN SAYS HE WILL SEEK THIRD TERM.

Governor Charles S. Whitman, of New York, has announced his candidacy for a third term. It was while elated with the news that he had been nominated by the Farmers' Council that Governor Whitman defiantly proclaimed he was ready to meet anybody who would dispute his title to a third term. The governor said: "I am ready to meet all comers at the primaries for the Republican Gubernatorial nomination."

Choosing a Wife.

It was Sir John More, father of the more famous Sir Thomas, who said: "I would compare the multitude of women which are to be chosen for wives unto a bag full of snakes having among them a single eel. Now, if a man should put his hand into this bag, he may chance to light on the eel; but it is a hundred to one he shall be stung by a snake." Sir John had evidently lighted on a "snake," which accounts for his lack of chivalry.

Child Died of Old Age.

About two years ago a boy of seven died at Zurich of old age. His case was exceptionally unique, for he was the youngest member of a family who had won local repute as athletes. The oldest brother was a first-class boxer, while the younger had won many prizes on the sports ground. Doctors from all parts of Europe flocked to Zurich to try to diagnose the boy's malady and effect a successful cure, but in vain.

Henrietta Alexander, widow of the late Isaac Bernstein, died Wednesday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Miss Flora Bernstein, aged ninety-four years She came to Kingston with her husband in 1849 and eight of her nine children were born here Her husband for many years was engaged in the clothing business in this city and after his death twenty-one years ago she removed to New York city, where she made her home with her daughter. Her health remained unimpaired until about a year ago and upto that time she frequently visited her sons and friends in this city and took a lively interest in all affairs. Death was due to a general physical breaking down Throughout her long residence in Kingston Mrs. Bernstein made many friends and gained and kept the respect of everyone with whom she came in contact. She was interested first in caring for her family but at all times she was actively engaged in charitable and philanthropic work She was generous and charitable and sought opportunities to perform kindness whenever possible She is survived by seven children, Henry, Sam and Jacob Bernstein of this city, Alexander Bernstein, of Portland, Oregon; Mrs David C. Fink of Providence, R. I.; Mrs Richard Weiner and Miss Flora Bernstein, both of New York city. The funeral took place from her late residence, No. 300 West One Hundred and Seventh street, New York city, this afternoon, and the remains will be brought to this city on the West Shore train reaching here at eleven o'clock Friday morning, when interment will be made in Wiltwyck cemetery, services at the grave being conducted by Rabbi Adolph Rosenberg of the Congregation Emanuel.

Henry Janeway Hardenbergh, the celebrated architect and designer of many famous New York hotels, died Wednesday at his home, No. 40 East Sixty-second street, New York city, in his seventy-second year. Mr Hardenbergh was a native of New Jersey but the descendant of a well-known Ulster county family He was born at New Brunswick, N J, February 6, 1847, and was the son of the late John Pool and Frances Eliza Eddy Hardenbergh. His father was a successful merchant While attending school Mr Hardenbergh evinced great partiality for designing and after his graduation he studied under Detlef Lienau, the famous architect, for five years, from 1865 to 1870. He began active practice as an architect in 1871 and his first professional work of importance was the designing and construction of a chapel and library for Rutgers College at New Brunswick, N. J. Later he added to the commanding position his professional work soon achieved for him by designing and constructing the first apartment hotel in New York city—the Vancorlear, at Seventh avenue, Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth streets—and another one—the largest, located on Central Park West, known as the Dakota. His designs for the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York, and the New Willard at Washing gave him a world-wide reputation as a hotel architect, as they were considered the finest in the world. The Hotel Copley-Plaza in Boston is considered by some, however, to be his best work. Among other notable buildings which he designed were the one million dollar addition to the Windsor Hotel at Montreal, Canada; a one million dollar hotel at Oakland, Cal., and the extensive Physical Laboratory of Princeton University, now in course of construction; the Manhattan and Raleigh Hotels in Washington He had just completed designs for an office building for the New Jersey Zinc Company on Maiden Lane, New York. Mr. Hardenbergh was a descendant of Major Johannes Hardenbergh, to whom the famous Hardenbergh patent, embracing a good part of the land of Ulster county, was granted by Queen Anne, and of the Rev. Jacob Rutsen Hardenbergh of Rosendale, who was the first president of Queen's (now Rutgers) College at New Brunswick. Mr Hardenbergh was a founder of the American Fine Arts Society and was president of the Architectural League for the years 1901 and 1902. He was a member of the Century, the Grolier, the Players, and Church and Riding Clubs. He was also a member of the American Institute of Architects, New York Chapter and the Sculpture Society The funeral will take place from St Bartholomew's Church, Madison avenue and Forty-fourth street, on Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The interment will be private.

Carillon.

This is the name given to a set of bells arranged in such a way as to be capable of giving forth a regular tune, or melody. A much greater number of bells is required for a Carillon than is hung for a general peal of bells. A large peal of bells consists of 10 or 12, while a Carillon may consist of as many as 30 or 40.

ESOPUS

Esopus, March 14.—The Epworth League business meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Smith on Tuesday evening was well attended, about twenty-four being present. Two new members were received, Miss Amy Smith and Herbert Cole. During the session the president, John L Schultz, presented his resignation This was done, Mr Schultz stated, on account of the pressure of business and other numerous church duties. He has been very devoted to the league during the past years and we are confident that his interest will continue in the future. At the close of the business hour some time was spent in social enjoyment and later refreshments were served by the hostess and her youthful assistants, Gladys Lyons, Jennie Smith and Master Harold Lyons The little girls wore Dutch caps and white aprons and the trio proved themselves to very capable helpers.

A good sized delegation from the Ladies' Aid society gathered at the home of Mrs. Charles C. Beaver on Wednesday afternoon of this week to transact business and arrange for a social to be held in the church basement on Wednesday evening March 27th. Those who attend—and we hope the number may be a legion—will greatly please the committee if they will wear some emblem or costume representing America or any of her allies. The ladies will serve a good supper during the evening. Also home made ice cream will be on sale The proceeds will be applied on the painting fund and it will mean only a small sum for each individual but in the aggregate will mean a great deal toward this good work. After making the arrangements for the above the hostess invited all present to engage in a contest called, "The Flower Courtship" Paper and pencils were given to each lady and twenty-four questions were asked—answers to the same to be written opposite the numbers on the papers At the expiration of the time given to prepare the answers Mrs. Hasbrouck Freer was presented with a poted primrose in full bloom, as first prize and a nut chocolate "Hershey" bar was given to Mrs. Fred Martin as the booby prize. The contest furnished much amusement and also created an appetite for the delicious refreshments served by Mrs. Beaver and her sister, Miss Cynthia Lowe Mr. Beaver also came in for a share in the honors, he having "dished" the ice cream.

Lucid Explanation.

Jane, being under the doctor's care, was telling John what good pills Doctor K. gave. John said: "Doctor K. was to see me, but just gave me cluform." No answer from Jane, so John said: "Janie, do you know what cluform is?" Jane said: "No," and John said: "Oh, just something so you won't get your feelings hurted."

Cleaning Silver.

A quick way to clean silver that is not tarnished, but merely discolored is to wash it in a weak solution of ammonia water. This removes the black stains. After cleaning them with the solution they should be washed and polished with a cloth. This method works well on silver spoons which have been discolored by eggs.

Millionaires.

Even though you are poor in pocket you may be rich in heart. Love, as well as the stock exchange, has its millionaires. But the difference to be noted is this, that the millionaire of the heart is the one who gives the most love, not the one who receives most. Spiritual wealth shall come by giving.

PYTHIANS PLAN BIG CELEBRATION

Kingston Honored by State Lodge by Being Chosen as One of Six Cities in Which to Celebrate Golden Jubilee Anniversary of the Order—Plan to Have Prominent Speakers.

Under the direction of Franklin Lodge, No. 37, Knights of Pythias, on the evening of April 15 in the high school auditorium a state jubilee Pythian celebration will be held, and arrangements are being made to have some very prominent speakers for the occasion.

Subordinate Pythian lodges throughout the state have been holding celebrations in honor of fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Pythian order in New York state. These celebrations have been largely attended.

In addition to the celebrations by the subordinate lodges the state order is holding six grand celebrations in different cities, and Kingston has been honored by being appointed one of these six.

The celebration in January was held in Buffalo, the February celebration was held in Utica. The March celebration will be held this Friday evening in New York city, and Mayor Canfield will take part in the ceremonies.

The ritual used in all of these celebrations was written by Mayor Canfield.

As soon as the arrangements for the April meeting are completed they will be announced. Plans are being made for an elaborate celebration and the committee is trying to secure the services of speakers of national prominence.

Broken Stove Lining.

If any one contemplates mending a broken stove lining with a cement made of salt and ashes mixed with water, don't do it. The salt will rust the stove, ruining it beyond repair. Instead, get a quart or so of cement and some sand from the street, and mix with water. Fill all the holes and cracks and your lining will be as good as a new one and your stove not injured.

BIRDS SAVE THE CROPS

Without Them the Hay Crop Would Not Be Possible.

The protection of birds and the problem of food production bear a close relationship, according to E. H. Forbush, ornithologist of Massachusetts, in a talk recently given at the state college of agriculture at Cornell.

So valuable are the birds in protecting crops from insect pests that without them, the grass crop, which is the biggest of all crops the world over, would hardly be possible. The birds feed on the pests which kill the grass, especially those which eat the roots.

Dr. Forbush gives the birds a practically complete alibi as enemies of the farmer. He backs his statements by so many specific instances in which birds had saved crops that those who heed his words will protect these feathered friends. Protection of the birds, he showed plainly, is not merely a matter of sentiment, but has a fundamental economic basis.

Carry Bugs for the Babies

Parent birds work incessantly to keep their young sufficiently fed. A young bird is about the biggest eater in the world. Audubon, the great naturalist, declared a woodcock would eat its weight in worms in a night. It has since been shown that it will do better than this; and it will eat twice its weight in 24 hours. In proportion to his size, if a man needed as much food as a young robin, it would mean he would have to eat a bologna sausage 67 feet long and nine inches in circumference each day.

Robins After Worms Not Cabbage

A farmer who thought the robins were pulling up his young cabbages, learned from a student of bird-life that the birds were pulling up only those plants which were dead; and this was to get at the wire worms at the root, which had caused the plants to die, and which would destroy other cabbages if left alone. In another case a group of farmers thought the meadow larks were destroying their crops. An ornithologist persuaded one farmer to spare the larks on his place. The other farmers shot them. The result was that the man who spared the larks was the only one for miles around who had an oat crop. The birds killed the insects which destroyed the other crops.

A Massachusetts cranberry grower suffered heavy loss from a worm which ate the berries. He encouraged the birds to build in his bog and in a few seasons he found he was bothered not at all by the worms.

Birds may be encouraged to build in orchards by having suitable nesting boxes provided and by being protected from their enemies. Their presence will favorably affect fruit production. They also help save the trees, because there are various birds which protect different parts of the tree: some feed on the insects which work at the roots, some those which bore into the bark and still others those which eat the leaves.

BOY SCOUTS HAVE SPECIAL POSTER

Plans have been completed at national headquarters for the part which the Scouts are to take in the next Liberty Loan. The local Scoutmasters will complete the plans for Kingston Scouts at the next meeting of the Scoutmasters' Council. Past experience has shown the government that the Boy Scouts can do a job as well as grown men. In consequence of past work done by Scouts, the government is defraying expense for publicity material to be used by the Boy Scouts in the third Liberty Loan.

"Persons unfamiliar with the inside working of scouting might naturally be led to feel that some clever expert directed the publicity for the organization.

As a matter of fact most of the splendid publicity we receive comes unsolicited. We know of no other organization in the whole country that begins to receive the amount that we do.

You have undoubtedly seen the contribution to scouting made by the Curtis Publishing Co., who, under date of March 2, ran a Boy Scout cover page on the Saturday Evening Post.

The picture represents a Scout in kneeling position putting the sword of preparedness into the hand of Liberty and was designed by Mr. Leyendecker, the artist who is responsible for the famous Boy Scout picture as used on the official hand book and on all pocket membership certificates.

The same design, in eight colors, will be run as a poster in the third Liberty Loan campaign. The government printing office has agreed to print 1,600,000 copies for the Scout distribution. A sample of the poster is at headquarters and every one who has seen it says it is a dandy. Kingston Scouts will receive a large number of these posters and will distribute them over the city. Each Scout will be expected to place at least one poster in a store window or some public place. Scouts may request that the poster be given back after the campaign is over as each Scout should have one of these in his home. The poster is on exhibition at Scout hearquarters. Sign up some merchant for a space in his window for the Boy Scout poster.

There will be a union meeting of all the Scout troops at the opening of the campaign. The date will be announced later. At this meeting plans for the third drive will be presented and the war service emblems won by Scouts in the last campaign will be awarded.
